New Signature minor – effective Fall 2020

MULTIMEDIA PRODUCTION MINOR

DESCRIPTION

The multimedia production minor is an interdisciplinary program offering students the opportunity to learn the fundamentals in media production software. Background in multimedia is highly desirable but not required.

This minor is intended as a signature minor, as it can be taken and added by majors in several programs of study. The program is a combination of courses from the Mass Communication, Music and Art departments. This minor would prepare students in the use of software and skills that are critical in the modern multimedia environment.

Required Courses	Credits
ART 1333 – Computers for Artists	3
MCOM 3313 – Foundations in Media Production	3
MCOM 3613 – Field and Studio Media Production	3
MUSC 3893 – Music Technology	3
ART 2713 – Graphic Design I	3
TOTAL	15 credits

2. New Core Curriculum Course ART 2023- effective Fall 2021

Course Prefix: ART

Course Number: 2023

Course Title: Art and Identity: Land, Body, Nation in Chicana Art

Prerequisite(s): None- Proposed as a new course for core curriculum – in process at the CCC

Description: This undergraduate seminar provides a comprehensive overview of Chicana/o art, and uses the historiography of Chicana/o art to frame this exploration. Therefore, students will be introduced to the scholars who founded this specialization within the discipline of art history, as well as art historical methods used to interpret and write about these contemporary artworks. Using a multi-disciplinary approach, we will consider how artists create, challenge, and support notions of identity in selected visual representations by contemporary Chicana and Chicano artists. The course uses the concept of Aztlán, in its initial construction as ancient indigenous homeland and its subsequent evolution since its reintroduction in the Chicana/o Movement manifesto El Plan Espiritual de Aztlán in 1969, as the course's central framework. Students will view, analyze, and discuss images of Chicana/o art and assigned readings, supplemented by selections from video, literature, and music when appropriate.
