Cash Internal Controls

by Leigh Kidwell

What are Internal Controls?

Processes, procedures and actions necessary to:

- Protect assets against theft and waste.
- Encourage adherence with policies, regulations and laws.
- Promote efficient operations.
- Ensure accurate and reliable data and reports.
- Provide boundaries.

Why have Internal Controls?

- They are established to catch and monitor potential exposure that could result in a significant error, omission, misstatement, fraud or theft.
- They proactively define, document, communicate, and support the institution's operational & financial goals and objectives.
- They are there to protect the employees as well as the University.

Want some examples?

Think about what YOU do every day.

- Lock your home and vehicle
- Keep your pin separate from your debit card
- Review bills & credit card statements before paying them
- Don't leave blank checks or cash lying around
- Expect your children to ask permission before certain activities

Cash Internal Controls

University internal controls are very similar

- Offices, buildings, vehicles are kept locked when unoccupied
- Computer passwords are periodically changed
- Invoices and p-card charges are verified prior to payment
- Authorizations are required for certain activities
- Cash and checks are locked up and kept secure

Common Controls for Cash

- Limit the number of employees who handle cash.
- Separation of duties (one person should not have physical access and posting responsibility).
- Dual custody (involve two employees when counting or transporting cash).
- Count cash in private.
- Keep cash locked up and secure.
- Limit the amount of cash kept on hand.
- Provide receipts.
- Routinely make deposits.

What does this mean for you?

- Trust is NOT a control.
- Honest people assume others are honest.
- Controls are there to protect the employee and the University.

Cash Internal Controls

Internal Controls versus Internal Audits

Controls

- Provide boundaries, promote efficiency, ensure accuracy
- Are management's responsibility to establish and maintain
- Protect employees and the University

Audits

- Tests controls and recommend improvements
- Evaluates compliance with policies
- Encourages operating efficiency
