6.1 Specifications & Scope of Work

Replacement of Five Steam Expansion Joints in Tunnels A and B Statement of Work

The scope of this project is the replacement of five steam expansion joints in tunnel A and B on Midwestern State University's campus. The locations of the joints in the tunnel are at A485, B480, B1365, crossover 230', and Ligon 155. Owner will furnish expansion joints and alignment guides per the attached list.

It shall be the responsibility of the contractor to furnish all materials other than the expansion joint itself and its alignment guides to complete the replacement process. The contractor's responsibility includes materials such as gaskets, bolts, nuts, washers, flanges, repair to insulation and metal jacketing, and replacement of the existing concrete mounting pad.

Stainless steel all-thread (OD=5/8") shall be used to secure the new base plate to the existing concrete pad. The existing concrete pad has a carbon steel top to which the new stainless steel all-thread studs shall be welded to; weld joint to be around entire diameter of each stud. All nuts, bolts, and washers for use on the expansion joints flanges to secure it to the existing steam lines shall be stainless steel; threads to be coated with anti-seize.

Contractor to reuse the existing concrete pad for each expansion joint, except for the joints at A485 and B1365. The joints at A485 and B1365 shall both require new concrete bases and shall roughly match the existing bases dimensionally.

The new expansion joint base plates are not typically at the same elevation as the existing concrete pad/base. A new base plate shall be fabricated for each of the new expansion joints and installed by the contractor in this gap so the new expansion joint is properly supported. The new base plate shall be fabricated per the following (referenced attached two photos for example of a replacement installation – Appendix F):

1. A piece of 8" carbon steel c-channel base shall be fabricated to fill the gap between the bottom of each new expansion joint's base and the top of the existing concrete block/pedestal. The c-channel shall be at least as wide as the new expansion joint's base, and at least its same length. Four mounting holes shall be drilled into the flange of the c-channel (holes to be at least the same size as the mounting holes in new expansion joint's base plate). Stainless steel bolts all-thread, nuts, lock washers, and washers shall be used to secure the new expansion joint to the c-channel.
2. Prior to installation of the c-channel, the "legs" of the channel shall be cut so the c-channel is the correct height to fill the gap between the new expansion joint and the existing concrete block/pedestal.
3. After the c-channel is cut and holes drilled, it shall be completely coated in epoxy paint using Sherwin Williams Heat-Flex Hi-Temp 1200. Multiple coats are necessary to achieve the proper dry film coating thickness noted in the manufacturer's Product Information. The legs will need to be masked off so they can be welded to the embedded plate on top of the existing concrete block/pedestal.
4. Once the c-channel is installed and the joint is secured to it, use stainless steel shims to remove any remaining gaps between the new expansion joint and the existing base to avoid placing the new joint in a bind up/down.
5. Weld the c-channel to the imbedded steel plate in the top of the existing concrete block/pedestal. Welds shall extend the entire length of the outside of each leg (obviously not on the inside of the legs since can't get to it).
6. Paint weld area (after weld cleanup) with Sherwin Williams Heat-Flex Hi-Temp 1200 epoxy paint; be sure to get paint on the back side of the channel (i.e., underneath).
7. Note, new expansion joints sometimes need to be compressed slightly to fit in the existing space in the tunnel. The manufacturer's instructions state two pieces of all-thread are to be used to ensure the joint is compressed equally and not placed in a bind. Expansion joint compression efforts shall utilize two pieces of all-thread instead of just one.

Issues with piping, anchoring the expansion joint, verifying the expansion joint's mounting pad/base plate material is readily available the same day, etc. which can be accomplished prior to a shutdown, shall be addressed before a scheduled shutdown. Contractor is responsible for proper planning to minimize downtime requirements. It is anticipated five separate shutdowns will be required to complete the replacements.

Spiral lock gaskets shall be used on all flanges.

If new flanges are required for the existing piping to match the expansion joint flange, they shall be 125 lbs. Slip-on flanges are acceptable.

All welding shall be performed by qualified or certified welder.

All work shall be inspected by MSU maintenance staff prior to recharging the system.

MSU maintenance staff shall be responsible for isolation of all steam valves, as well as recharging the system when the work has been completed.

All work shall be scheduled to minimize interruptions to normal business activities or sporting events, although it is understood affected buildings will be without hot water or humidity control during the shutdowns. All work in the tunnels shall occur between May 18 and June 26, 2020. Note MSU begins working 4-10 hour days (7 AM – 6 PM) Monday through Thursday starting June 8th (i.e., we will not be available for assistance or inspections on Fridays).

- Expansion Joints shall be manufactured by ADVANCED THERMAL SYSTEMS.
- Joints shall be 150 lb. flanged single joint w/anchor base as indicated.
