1. Core Curriculum Course Proposal

Document how the proposed course meets each of the following requirements.

Content: Courses in the Language, Philosophy & Culture FCA focus on how ideas, values, beliefs, and other aspects of culture express and affect human experience.

This course is an introductory overview of the major events, trends, and cultures in world civilization from the emergence of homo sapiens to c. 1500 CE. It differs from Western surveys by also covering the history of peoples and cultures, as well as their ideas and beliefs, on the continents of Asia, Africa, and Central and South America. This course assumes no prior knowledge and seeks to show students how the many cultures of the historical world affect the human experience in the past as well as in the present.

HIST 1353 provides students with the knowledge and understanding of a variety of cultures before 1500 and includes (but is not limited to) examination of the main political, social, and cultural trends of a variety of societies and cultures throughout four main periods of human history: Pre-Civilizations; Early Civilizations; Classical Civilizations; Post-Classical Civilizations.

In addition, students in this course gain an understanding of human history in conjunction with global changes and encounters, a comprehension of the major interactions between peoples and societies throughout the world, an appreciation for comparative urban cultures, visual cultures, and other cultural encounters, an emphasis on how the history of past cultures affects the human experience today, and a broad understanding of the following themes in world history up to c. 1500 CE: Social Organization and Control; Religion, Philosophy, and Cosmology; Language and Literature; Science and Technology; Contact and Isolation; Gender Roles.

Skills: Courses in the Language, Philosophy & Culture FCA involve the exploration of ideas that foster aesthetic and intellectual creation in order to understand the human condition across cultures.

Students in HIST 1353 develop the following skills at the culmination of this course:

- The ability to synthesize and evaluate considerable amounts of factual information
- The ability to distinguish cause and effect in historical processes/events and/or to compare and contrast differing systems and structures
- The ability to identify and understand the key historical processes/events that shaped world civilizations
- The ability to identify and understand key political and intellectual ideas that have affected the development of world civilizations
Course Proposal: HIST 1353 World Civilizations to 1500 (TCCN: HIST 2321)

- The ability to apply critical reasoning to evaluate and effectively communicate complex historical ideas and/or processes
- The ability to better understand the human condition through the exploration of various cultures

Additional Information: Provide any additional information supporting course inclusion in the core:

This course is a Texas Common Core Course: History 2321. Of the 136 schools that participate in the Texas Common Core numbering system, 72 institutions teach this course.

Assessment of Core Curriculum Objectives: Assessments should be authentic, intentional and direct. The following four Core Objectives must be addressed in each course approved to fulfill this category requirement. For each core curriculum objective below, provide the title of the assessment/assignment used to measure if the objective is met. (A complete description of the assignment is provided in a later section, 3. Assessment Core Objectives.)

1. Critical Thinking Skills: creative thinking, innovation, inquiry, and analysis, evaluation and synthesis of information.

   Writing Assignment Eight

2. Communication Skills: effective development, interpretation and expression of ideas through written, oral and visual communication.

   Writing Assignment Eight

3. Social Responsibility: intercultural competence, knowledge of civic responsibility, and the ability to engage effectively in regional, national, and global communities.

Course Description/Objectives
This 1000-level core-satisfying course is a history lecture class that surveys the history of the premodern world from the emergence of homo sapiens to c. 1500 CE. In this course, students will be introduced to the main political, social, and cultural trends of a variety of societies throughout four main periods of human history. This periodization allows us to understand human history in conjunction with global changes and encounters that affected and continue to affect the human experience. During the course we will look at the major interactions between peoples, cultures, and societies in addition to assessing societies on their own accord by considering their ideas, values, and beliefs. In order to properly achieve this perspective we will be focusing on comparative urban cultures, visual cultures, and cultural encounters (both within and outside of communities). In the end, students should not only have a basic grasp on the premodern past but should also be able to compare and contrast societies within large-scale frameworks for historical analysis in order to gain a greater appreciation for cultural and global societies.

In addition to the topics mentioned above, the following themes in world history will be studied:

- Social Organization and Control
- Religion, Philosophy, and Cosmology
- Language and Literature
- Science and Technology
- Contact and Isolation
- Gender Roles

Required Books, Readings, and Materials
Common Course Syllabus: HIST 1353 World Civilizations to 1500 (TCCN: HIST 2321)

Requirements and Grading
The grade for this course will be based on attendance, discussion, and participation; several short discussion papers; weekly quizzes; and a final exam.

Class Attendance
I am assuming that you are an adult and that you can make your own decisions about coming to class. Regardless of what you choose, attendance will be taken at the beginning of class as is required per the Texas University System rules. If you miss 7 or more times your grade will drop one letter grade. The grade will then continue to drop one letter for every additional time missed until ten times missed. After ten times missed you will receive a failing grade for attendance, discussion, and participation. You will also be counted as absent if you show up more than 15 minutes late for class without an appropriate excuse or if you are consistently unprepared for class, fail to pay attention during class, and or fail to participate in class discussion.

Discussion and Writing Assignments
Over the course of the semester we will be examining a number of primary sources. Students must read these works and come to class prepared to speak about them. In addition, students will be completing six short writing assignments (no more than two pages or ~500 words). Three are required (writing assignments one, two, and eight) and three are the choice of the student. Not completing these assignments and/or not participating in discussion will negatively affect the overall grade. More details about the papers is provided below, including an outline of the rubrics, which are based on the AAC&U guidelines, used for grading.

- All papers must use the primary sources in order to answer the question(s).
- Papers are due at the beginning of the class period. You must staple the pages together. You will also need to staple a scoring rubric to the paper, which is provided below.
- Discussion assignments are due on the assigned days. You may not submit late discussion papers.
- Of the six papers, the first two writing assignments and the eighth writing must be completed. Of the rest, choose three.
- Papers need to be typed with a reasonable font (Times New Roman, Cambria, Tahoma, etc.), double-spaced, and have one-inch margins. While you do not need to include a cover page, you do need to include your name, the name of the class, and the section. Please proofread these papers for silly mistakes and errors.
• You will need to save all your papers. The last week of classes, all the papers will be turned back into me and collected in folders. On the day of the final you will receive your folder with papers. You may use the papers on the final exam.

Paper Help
I am more than happy to help you with your papers during office hours and by appointment, but you must come in and get the help in person. In addition, the campus writing center provides free help to any enrolled student: Tutoring is available Monday through Thursday from 9am to 4pm; you can also find a tutor at the satellite location in Moffett Library Honors Lounge, Sunday and Thursday from 6pm to 9pm. Writing tutors will not edit your papers for you, but they will provide support and feedback at every stage of the writing process, from brainstorming to drafting, revising to proofreading.

Quizzes
Students will take weekly quizzes based on the readings.

Examinations
There will be one final exam in the class over the class lectures, readings, and discussions. More detail about the exam will be provided as the course progresses. As noted above, students may use the discussion papers for the final exam.

Grading Breakdown
Grading for the course will break down as follows:

- Final exam 15%
- Writing Assignment One 10%
- Writing Assignment Two 10%
- Writing Assignment Eight 10%
- Writing Assignment Choice 10%
- Writing Assignment Choice 10%
- Writing Assignment Choice 10%
- Weekly quizzes 15%
- Attendance, participation, and discussion 10%

100%

The grading scale is as follows: A = 90 and above; B = 80-89; C = 70-79; D = 60-69; F = 59 and below.

Missed Exams or Assignments
A makeup final exam will not be given unless you have a valid class excuse, including, but not limited to severe illness (with documentation) and a university excused event (again, with documentation). Please notify me in advance and in person if you need to miss class. Avoid any penalties by turning in assignments early or by making arrangements with me if you know you must miss class. In-class work, such as discussion assignments, cannot be made up. Make arrangements to be in class by not scheduling work, child care, doctor’s appointments, and other obligations during class time. Late papers will not be accepted.

Support Services
In coordination with the Disability Support Service, reasonable accommodations will be provided for qualified students with disabilities (LD, Orthopedic, Hearing, Visual, Speech, Psychological, ADD/ADHD, Health Related & Other). Please meet with the instructor during the first week of class to make arrangements.

Nondiscrimination Statement
Midwestern State University does not discriminate on the basis of sex, religion, creed, national origin, race, age, disability, or any other basis prohibited by law. If you believe you have been discriminated against unlawfully, please bring this matter to the attention of your professor or to the Human Resource Office.

Intellectual Property
All lectures, PowerPoints, handouts, and discussion materials in this class are considered the intellectual property of the professor. Lectures may not be recorded or posted online. This includes taking pictures with your cell phones. In addition, if you miss class, please ask a fellow classmate for the notes. If you are not able to get the notes, see me and I will help you to make accommodations.

Classroom Etiquette
You are responsible for material presented in lectures and the knowledge of any of it will be necessary for papers and the final exam. Please refrain from behavior disruptive to the conduct of class, including but not limited to arriving late, leaving early, leaving in the middle of lecture to use the restroom, talking with neighbors, texting and/or using a cell phone. Do not bring work unrelated to class. Think carefully about how you are spending your tuition money. If you sleep in class and if you snore, people are likely to laugh at you.

Academic Integrity
Cheating, dishonesty and plagiarism will not be tolerated in this course. You must document all of your source material. If you take any text from somebody else, you must make it clear the text is being quoted and where the text comes from. You must also cite any sources from which you obtain numbers, ideas, or other material. If you have any questions about what does or does not constitute plagiarism, ask! Plagiarism is a serious offense and will not be treated lightly. Fortunately, it is also easy to avoid and if you are the least bit careful about giving credit where credit is due you should not run into any problems. Students who plagiarize or cheat on assignments will receive a zero for that assignment—no exceptions. Instances of plagiarism and cheating will be reported to the Dean.

D2L and Instructions
Students MUST access D2L to complete some assignments in this course. In addition, communication with the class will occur via D2L. To access D2L, go to https://d2l.mwsu.edu/.

Finals
3. Assessment Core Objectives

3A. Assessment for Critical Thinking Skills

This skill will be assessed through the eighth writing assignment. Over the course of the semester students must read primary sources and write at least six papers over the sources. The last writing assignment is used for assessment. This writing assignment assesses Critical Thinking Skills by evaluating the student in three areas: Explanation of the Issue, Use of Evidence, and Conclusion. In assessing the students’ use of Critical Thinking Skills, faculty will rely on the AACU’s Critical Thinking VALUE Rubric, in particular line one: explanation of issues; line two: evidence; and line five: conclusions and related outcomes. These lines are distilled into a common rubric lines one through three.

3B. Assessment for Communication Skills

This skill will be assessed through the eighth writing assignment. Over the course of the semester students must read primary sources and write at least six papers over the sources. The last writing assignment is used for assessment. This writing assignment assesses Communication Skills by evaluating the students’ Communication and Writing. In assessing the students’ communication and writing in this assignment, faculty will rely on the AACU’s Critical Thinking VALUE Rubric rely on all but the third row (Genre and Disciplinary Conventions) of the AACU’s Written Communication VALUE Rubric. They will pay special attention to line five: Control of Syntax and Mechanics. These lines are distilled into a common rubric line four.

3C. Assessment for Social Responsibility

This skill will be assessed through the eighth writing assignment. Over the course of the semester students must read primary sources and write at least six papers over the sources. The last writing assignment is used for assessment. This writing assignment assesses students’ social responsibility through their awareness of historical cultural differences and similarities by evaluating their recognition of the specific historical context of the beliefs/values/actions of the societies in question via primary sources. Faculty will assess the students’ level of Social Responsibility by using the second row: Knowledge and row four: Skills of the AACU’s Intercultural Knowledge and Competence VALUE Rubric. In addition, faculty assessment of students’ understanding of social responsibility will be assessed through ethical decision-making in an historical context; this will not explicitly rely on the AACU’s Ethical Reasoning VALUE Rubric but this assignment does contribute towards that rubric’s goals of developing a student’s ability to assess “the social context of problems [and] recognize ethical issues in a variety of settings.” These lines are distilled into a common rubric line five.
Assessment Core Objectives: HIST 1353 World Civilizations to 1500 (TCCN: HIST 2321)

3D. Assessment for Personal Responsibility

This skill will be assessed through the eighth writing assignment. Over the course of the semester students must read primary sources and write at least six papers over the sources. The last writing assignment is used for assessment. This writing assignment assesses students’ awareness of Personal Responsibility through their understanding of historical cultural differences and similarities by their recognition of the specific historical context of the beliefs/values/actions of the cultures in question via primary sources. In assessing the students’ grasp of Personal Responsibility, faculty will rely on the AACU’s Global Learning VALUE Rubric line two: Perspective Taking. These lines are distilled into a common rubric line six.

History 1353: Writing Assignment Eight
Sample

Introduction:
Historians pose questions and then attempt to answer the queries with evidence that the peoples who have come before have left behind (primary documentation). This first paper is meant to introduce you to primary and secondary sources, how to use the sources, and how to cite properly. Please follow the directions below using your textbook and the primary sources. You may also use any primary sources from chapter three of your textbook. Failure to use primary evidence WILL RESULT IN A LOWER GRADE.

The Assignment:
1. Using the lectures, textbook, primary sources, textbook primary sources, handouts, etc., define civilization.
2. Then address the following: How and why has the definition of civilization changed over time? Are there groups in world history who should be studied even if they do not fit the definition of ‘civilization’? Who are they and why should we study them?
3. You must use at least 4 different primary sources.

The details:
• This paper should be typed and double-spaced, composed of twelve-point font and of a reasonable font type, e.g. Times New Roman, and should have one-inch margins.
• The total length of this paper should be no more and no less than 2 pages.
• This paper needs to be in the proper essay format: Introduction with thesis, body paragraphs, and conclusion.
• You must cite the sources properly:
  o When you use something directly from the Strayer book, you cite as follows:
    ▪ Strayer argues “…” (Strayer, 17).
  o If you use something from a document, cite as follows:
    ▪ “If a man charges another man with homicide but cannot bring proof against him, his accuser shall be killed…” (The Code of Hammurabi, 119).
  o Integrate the sources: no free-floating quotations.
    ▪ We know Egypt was a civilization because the document, Be a Scribe talks about the “woes of the soldier,” which suggests specialization (Be a Scribe, 125).
• Use only class materials. Before handing your paper in, be sure to proofread for grammatical and other mistakes. Failure to proofread will result in a lower grade.
Assessment Core Objectives: HIST 1353 World Civilizations to 1500 (TCCN: HIST 2321)

*Your paper will be graded according to the writing assignment common rubric (based on the AACU’s Value Rubrics) included in your syllabus. Please familiarize yourself with the rubric before handing in your paper

Critical Thinking Definition

Critical thinking is a habit of mind characterized by the comprehensive exploration of issues, ideas, artifacts, and events before accepting or formulating an opinion or conclusion. Evaluators are encouraged to assign a zero to any work sample or collection of work that does not meet benchmark (cell one) level performance.

Evidence

Selecting and using information to investigate a point of view or conclusion

Information is taken from source(s) with enough interpretation/evaluation to develop a comprehensive analysis or synthesis. Viewpoints of experts are questioned thoroughly.

Information is taken from source(s) with enough interpretation/evaluation to develop a coherent analysis or synthesis. Viewpoints of experts are subject to questioning.

Information is taken from source(s) with some interpretation/evaluation, but not enough to develop a coherent analysis or synthesis. Viewpoints of experts are taken as mostly fact, with little questioning.

Information is taken from source(s) without any interpretation/evaluation. Viewpoints of experts are taken as fact, without question.

Influence of context and assumptions

Thoroughly (systematically and methodically) analyzes own and others' assumptions and carefully evaluates the relevance of contexts when presenting a position.

Identifies own and others’ assumptions and several relevant contexts when presenting a position.

Questions some assumptions. Identifies several relevant contexts when presenting a position. May be more aware of others’ assumptions than one's own (or vice versa).

Shows an emerging awareness of present assumptions (sometimes labels assertions as assumptions). Begins to identify some contexts when presenting a position.

Student's position (perspective, thesis/hypothesis)

Specific position (perspective, thesis/hypothesis) is imaginative, taking into account the complexities of an issue. Limits of position (perspective, thesis/hypothesis) are acknowledged. Others’ points of view are synthesized within position (perspective, thesis/hypothesis).

Specific position (perspective, thesis/hypothesis) takes into account the complexities of an issue. Others’ points of view are acknowledged within position (perspective, thesis/hypothesis).

Specific position (perspective, thesis/hypothesis) acknowledges different sides of an issue.

Specific position (perspective, thesis/hypothesis) is stated, but is simplistic and obvious.

Conclusions and related outcomes (implications and consequences)

Conclusions and related outcomes (consequences and implications) are logical and reflect student's informed evaluation and ability to place evidence and perspectives discussed in priority order.

Conclusion is logically tied to a range of information, including opposing viewpoints; related outcomes (consequences and implications) are identified clearly.

Conclusion is logically tied to information (because information is chosen to fit the desired conclusion); some related outcomes (consequences and implications) are identified clearly.

Conclusion is inconsistently tied to some of the information discussed; related outcomes (consequences and implications) are oversimplified.

Definition

Written communication is the development and expression of ideas in writing. Written communication involves learning to work in many genres and styles. It can involve working with many different writing technologies, and mixing texts, data, and images. Written communication abilities develop through iterative experiences across the curriculum.

Global Learning VALUE Rubric

for more information, please contact value@aacu.org

Global learning is a critical analysis of and an engagement with complex, interdependent global systems and legacies (such as natural, physical, social, cultural, economic, and political) and their implications for people’s lives and the earth’s sustainability. Through global learning, students should 1) become informed, open-minded, and responsible people who are attentive to diversity across the spectrum of differences, 2) seek to understand how their actions affect both local and global communities, and 3) address the world’s most pressing and enduring issues collaboratively and equitably.

Evaluators are encouraged to assign a zero to any work sample or collection of work that does not meet benchmark (cell one) level performance.

ETHICAL REASONING VALUE RUBRIC

for more information, please contact value@aacu.org

Ethical Reasoning is reasoning about right and wrong human conduct. It requires students to be able to assess their own ethical values and the social context of problems, recognize ethical issues in a variety of settings, think about how different ethical perspectives might be applied to ethical dilemmas, and consider the ramifications of alternative actions. Students’ ethical self-identity evolves as they practice ethical decision-making skills and learn how to describe and analyze positions on ethical issues.

Evaluators are encouraged to assign a zero to any work sample or collection of work that does not meet benchmark (cell one) level performance.
