I. Policy Statement

It is the policy of Midwestern State University ("MSU" or "University"), a component institution of the Texas Tech University System ("System" or "TTUS") to comply with state and federal requirements and the accreditation standards of the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools Commission on Colleges ("SACSCOC") related to distance education for academic credit at MSU.

II. Reason for Policy

The purpose of this Operating Policy/Procedure (OP) is to provide a framework for the development, implementation, and maintenance of courses, certificates, and degree programs offered via distance education for academic credit at MSU.

III. Application of Policy

This OP applies to all University employees and students.

IV. Definition(s)

Distance Education: Defined for purposes of this OP the same as the definition adopted by SACSCOC:

"For the purposes of SACSCOC’s accreditation review, distance education is a formal educational process in which the majority of the instruction (interaction between students and instructors and among students) in a course occurs when students and instructors are not in the same place. Instruction may be synchronous or asynchronous. A distance education course may use the internet; one-way and two-way transmissions through open broadcast, closed circuit, cable, microwave, broadband lines, fiber optics, satellite, or wireless communications devices; audio conferencing; or other digital media if used as part of the distance education course or program." (Distance and Correspondence Education: Policy Statement, 2020)

V. Policy/Procedures

The Office of the Provost serves as the central repository for distance education program information and support structure. The Provost or designee will be assigned responsibility for distance education. The Distance Education Council will serve in an advisory capacity to the Provost or the Provost's designee on policy and operational issues related to distance education.

A. Mission for Distance Education

MSU's commitment to the diverse learner maximizes access to rigorous and engaging education through innovative distance learning opportunities equivalent to those offered face-to-face. MSU provides high-quality, "values-focused [learning experiences that will accommodate a] student-centered teaching and learning environment"\(^1\) anytime and anywhere.

B. Degree and Certificate Programs Offered Via Distance Education

Distance education follows institutional policies and procedures as do all modalities offered by the institution aligning with MSU's organizational structure, approval processes and administrative structure.

1. Programs offered via distance education will be consistent with the goals and mission of MSU, the relevant academic units, and will be reviewed and approved through the institution's curriculum approval process to ensure that each course has learning outcomes and credit hour requirements equivalent to face-to-face taught courses and is in accordance with Texas Higher Education Coordinating (THECB) approval policies for Approval of Distance Education including Off-Campus Courses and Programs and with OP 02.39 : Reporting SACSCOC Substantive Changes. Unless otherwise provided in the MSU Undergraduate or Graduate Catalog, all policies, standards, and guidelines for face-to-face instruction apply to programs delivered via distance education.

2. Selection of programs to be offered via distance education is the purview of the appropriate academic unit, which provide oversight of the program to ensure currency of the program, its distance education courses, marketability, capacity, quality and resources. Distance education programs will align with the University's mission, vision and values, learning outcomes appropriate to the rigor and breadth of the degree awarded and consistent with all other modalities of the same program.

\(^1\) Midwestern State University Mission Statement (TTU System Board Approved 1 Sept. 2021).
Assessment/Institutional Effectiveness

3. Assessment of distance education programs is guided by the following policies and best practices:
   a. SACSCOC policy statement of Distance and Correspondence Education;
   b. Principles of Good Practice as defined by the Southern Regional Board for the Electronic Campus (SREC) and the THECB;
   c. Interregional Guidelines for the Evaluation of Distance Education adopted by the Council of Regional Accrediting Commissions (C-RAC) and THECB; and
   d. Institutional policies include OP 2.29: University Boards, Councils, and Committees, OP 06.20: Faculty Performance Review; however, are not limited to these policies as additional assessment processes include further committees, councils, department and faculty processes.

4. Distance education programs are assessed alongside all modalities in the academic program assessment process with respect to the attainment of identified learning outcomes and program outcomes.

5. Distance education programs are evaluated in the same manner as face-to-face programs through the institutional academic review process.

6. Once implemented, the assessment of the program continues. If during any part of the assessment and institutional effectiveness processes, it is found that the program is no longer a marketable/viable program for student achievement and success, the continuation of the program will follow SACSCOC guidance of program closure ensuring a sufficient time period for currently admitted students to complete their program.

7. For each major in a degree, or certificate program, whether offered via distance education, or in person, the institution assigns responsibility for program coordination, assessment of learning outcomes and student success, as well as for curriculum development and review, to persons academically qualified in the field.

8. MSU's Dual Credit portal outlines the framework for initiation, approval, implementation, and tracking of courses for the Dual Credit Program.

9. MSU's status as an approved National Council of State Authorization Reciprocity Agreement (NC - SARA) college allows students from approved states to enroll into distance education programs. NC-SARA is a voluntary, regional approach to state oversight of postsecondary distance education.

C. Distance Education Courses

1. Teaching and learning delivered through distance education use the MSU learning management system (LMS).

2. Academic departments may choose to offer new or current courses in a distance education format. All new distance education courses must abide to the SACSCOC/THECB notifications of moving a program to a new modality and/or by percentage of degree.
3. The following apply to all academic courses, regardless of delivery mode:
   a. Faculty teaching distance education courses are responsible for the academic integrity of all content used within the course materials, including accuracy, currency, and compliance with laws regarding copyright and MSU's OP 76.01: Intellectual Property Rights General Statement.
   b. Academic courses are continually assessed as appropriate and follow institutional assessment processes.
   c. Students evaluate courses delivered via distance education using the same course evaluation instrument in effect for face-to-face courses. These evaluations include the effectiveness and efficiency of delivery systems, academic resources, student services, facilities, library, technology, and access to faculty.
   d. Courses and course materials are archived according to the laws of the State of Texas and the requirements of the certified retention schedule of MSU.
   e. Courses follow the same registration and transcription practices as those of other delivery modes.

FERPA, Security, and Privacy

4. Student Privacy: Family Education Right to Privacy Act (FERPA) of Personal Information, MSU's FERPA website provides definitions and MSU's obligations, including required FERPA training for faculty and staff every two years. MSU's FERPA website does not distinguish between face-to-face and distance education students; therefore, FERPA policy is applied equally to both. Additionally, Information Security Policy, OP 44.11: Information Resources Use and Security Policy, define information security controls around information privacy and protection.

5. Security of Personally Identifiable Information (PII): Students and faculty will comply with information security policy, security controls, and regulatory requirements as outlined in the Information Resources Use and Security Policy Agreement and OP 44.11: Information Resources Use and Security Policy. OP 44.11 does not designate differences between face-to-face and distance education users.

As stated in the MSU Information Security Handbook, MSU has information security controls for the purpose of identification and authentication of all users, which includes Distance Education students.

   a. For security purposes, faculty, and students of both the D2L and Banner systems use an assigned personal login ID and unique password to register and access each of the distance education courses through a secure portal. Students and employees will adhere to policies on electronic security that prohibit sharing of passwords as well as requiring students, and faculty to take precautions against others obtaining access to their University computer accounts per the .
   b. Additionally, institutional policies and procedures governing the management and security of information resources are defined in OP 44.11: Information Resources Use and Security Policy and the Information Security Handbook, which define MSU's compliance with Texas Administrative Code 202 and outlines the roles and responsibilities of all constituents who come in contact with sensitive student information. Institutional policies and procedures governing the management and security of protected information of faculty, staff, students, and other constituents and affiliates of MSU are defined in the Information Resources Use and Security Policy Agreement which dictates that all "users must not use or disclose sensitive information, or data that is otherwise confidential or restricted, without appropriate authorization."

D. Faculty/Curriculum and Instruction

"Faculty assumes primary responsibility for and exercises oversight of distance and correspondence education, ensuring both the rigor of programs and the quality of instruction."2

1. Academic Qualifications

Qualifications of prospective faculty members are reviewed by department-level search committees in accordance with discipline-specific standards established by each college. The Office of the Provost and Vice President for Academic Affairs monitors this process to ensure that all faculty at MSU are appropriately qualified.

a. Faculty member's content qualifications and program coordinators are determined by MSU at the department level in accordance with SACSCOC and THECB guidelines for both face-to-face and distance education courses.

2. Course Development

a. Intellectual Property Rights

(1) Faculty members retain the authority and responsibility to produce any revised or supplemental course materials to maintain or enhance the accuracy and quality of the distance education course. MSU's OP 76.02: Intellectual Property Rights - Distance Education. Creation, Use, Ownership, Royalties, Revision and Distribution of Electronically Developed Course Materials applies to all programs and courses delivered via distance education.

5. Delivery

a. Faculty members are responsible for:

(1) the academic management and oversight of distance education courses;

(2) informing students about technical skill prerequisites and required hardware, software, and supplemental materials appropriate to the nature and objectives of the course making it necessary for course participation;

(3) providing for regular and substantive interaction with students, and between students, enrolled in a distance education course;

(4) verifying student identity;

(a) Faculty use a wide range of discipline-specific pedagogical strategies (work groups, webcams, synchronous discussions, instructor/student emails, texting, blogging, one-on-one video conferencing, video submissions, etc.) in order to foster learning and ensure that the student enrolled in a course is the same student participating in the course.

(b) Besides the controlled specific access to the online platform, faculty monitors each student by comparing text, voice and image of the student in a variety of ways throughout each course. All while abiding by OP 44.11: Information Resources Use and Security Policy and the Information Resources Use and Security Policy Agreement.

(5) regularly monitoring and reporting the last day of attendance;

(6) Student evaluation responses are used in both face-to-face and distance education courses to evaluate faculty members.

6. Recognition/Evaluation

Advertising, Recruiting, and Admissions: MSU produces advertising, recruiting, and admissions materials clearly and accurately for distance education students representing programs, requirements, and services available. MSU follows the admissions policies as described in the relevant MSU Undergraduate or Graduate Catalog.

   a. Students enrolled in distance education are provided an orientation with clear, complete, and timely information including but not limited to the use of electronic forms of learning resources, technological competence and skills, technical equipment requirements, availability of support services, and the Honor Code (including academic integrity).

2. Academic and Student Support: Distance Education students are provided reasonable and adequate academic and student support services appropriate to support their successful completion of course work. Academic and student support services offered through distance education (online and at off-site locations) are given the same attention in terms of the quality, integrity, and assessment of offerings as are given to services offered face-to-face. Equal or equivalent services differ by location, mode of delivery, and/or population to meet student needs, governing laws and regulations. Included below are MSU links to academic and support services available to students:

   a. Academic and Student Services;

      (1) Technical Services and Tutoring: In addition to the other academic and student support services, Technology Services support and Tutoring are available for students. D2L is available M-Sun 8am-10pm, the Information Technology help desk is available M-F, 8am – 5pm. Distance education tutoring is available through Tutoring and Academic Support.

   b. Student Involvement and Student Life;

   c. Student Disability Services

      (1) MSU is committed to the principle that no qualified individual with a disability shall, on the basis of disability, be excluded from participation in or be denied the benefits of the services, programs or activities of the university, or be subjected to discrimination by the university, as provided by the Americans with Disabilities Act of 1990 (ADA), the Americans with Disabilities Act Amendments of 2008 (ADAAA) and subsequent legislation.
3. Complaint Resolution: MSU seeks to maintain the highest standards of integrity and fairness in its relationships with students. A student who believes that specific actions, practices, or decisions on academic or non-academic matters have been made or carried out in an arbitrary, discriminatory, inequitable, or inconsistent manner, as stated by MSU policy statements, can initiate a complaint.

   a. For more information about MSU's grade or academic honesty appeal policy, please review the Student Handbook available through the Office of Student Rights and Responsibilities.

   b. For more information about any form of gender discrimination, including sexual misconduct, please review MSU Title IX Website.

   c. Students enrolled in distance education courses have the opportunity to evaluate distance education courses, provide feedback for course improvements, and have access to a procedure for resolving complaints, as noted in MSU Student Handbook. The University encourages students to seek informal resolution of concerns before pursuing a more formal process. However, if a student deems informal efforts unsatisfactory, they may pursue a formal complaint in accordance with the procedure.

F. Library/Learning Resources

1. MSU ensures all distance education students have access to resources equal or equivalent to those available to face-to-face students and that students can effectively use the resources. These resources support various levels of technology access and include online databases, electronic journals, eBooks, electronic access to reference services, partnerships with other institutions for shared borrowing, e-Reserves, and document delivery.

   a. The library is actively involved in institutional effectiveness processes, feedback surveys from faculty, staff, and students and uses the surveys in their planning for improvement.

4. Instructors provide distance education students information about library services in each course.

G. Financial Support, Budgeting, and Fees for Distance Education Courses

1. Funding and Financial Administration of Distance Education Courses
a. Academic departments do not receive additional funding for the development and delivery of distance education courses by departmental faculty. Faculty are expected to develop or deliver distance education courses as part of their normal duties and teaching load, as dictated by departmental needs and student demand. (OP 06.17: Faculty Workload - Teaching Load Policy and OP 06.09: Outside Employment of Faculty)

b. Beyond just offering individual distance education courses, academic departments may also choose to offer degree programs (including certificates) which are delivered entirely via distance education. This may involve moving existing degree programs to a distance education format, or developing new degree programs to be offered via distance education. In each case, the college and academic department will consider the incremental costs associated with a proposed new distance education program.

2. Tuition and Fees for Distance Education Courses
   a. Tuition and fees charged for distance education courses are specified in the biennial Global Fee Document approved by the Texas Tech University System Board of Regents.

b. The fees charged for distance education courses differ from those charged for face-to-face courses. Distance education courses are subject to a distance education fee, except for those distance education courses which are offered to dual credit students. Should a student be registered for distance education courses only, they are not to be charged fees which only apply to students taking courses on the MSU campus.

c. The tuition and fees that a student are charged for a distance education course are clearly stated and publicly available prior to the start of registration from the MSU Office of Admissions.

H. Facilities

1. MSU has adequate facilities and finances to support distance education.
